The Bishop's Page

The New Archdeacon I was very happy when some weeks ago I found that Dr. Hodgkin was willing to make the sacrifice entailed in surrendering the parish in which he has lived and worked through all his ministry to become Archdeacon, and happy again last month when the Standing Committee and the Diocesan Council confirmed the nomination. Bishop Porter had said to me when he told me that he would accept the election to Sacramento that he hoped Dr. Hodgkin might succeed him. No one other than Bishop Porter and myself knows the mission field of the Diocese better. No one has studied so long and carefully the problems connected with missionary administration. I bespeak for Dr. Hodgkin the earnest support of clergy and laity. It is no easy task to succeed Bishop Porter but I am confident that the whole Diocese will help him in that task. Let us give him the backing of our sympathy, our interest, our co-operation and our prayers.

A Busy Month This month of September is always busy. It is the time when we wind up diocesan and for the most part parochial machinery for the active season of Church work. The Laymen's Conference at Menlo Park will be over before this paper appears. Its program is full of interest as the report of its proceedings will show. On the 13th the Diocesan Council and the Department of Missions hold their first meetings. On Sunday, the 17th, the Prayer Book Cross service—omitted last year—takes place and it is hoped that there will be a great gathering of choirs and Church people on that interesting occasion. On the 20th the clergy meet for their annual conference, followed the next day by a Quiet Day led by the Bishop. The Clergy Conference differs altogether from Convention or Convocation. It has no canonical place in the diocesan life. It does not legislate and rarely passes resolutions. The Bishop presents matters of policy, particularly as they concern the leadership of the clergy; questions are asked and discussions take place. We have a chance to find ourselves and to think out together our common problems. We do not always succeed as well as we would like; but we do always find that we have many common problems and realize more fully our common responsibility for the work of the Diocese. And then the last week comes. Clergy and laity together in their parishes will be getting ready for the work of presenting the Church's Program—parochial, diocesan and general. There will be a stir of life everywhere. May God grant that it be real life, based in faith and loyalty and helping us all to know Him better and to make Him better known in the world.

Outside the Diocese In addition to these diocesan affairs, the trustees of the Church Divinity School are meeting and final plans for the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the school on St. Luke's Day, October 18, are to be settled. St. Margaret's and the Divinity School are both getting started on their new year. The Bishops of the Province meet in Portland the first week of the month to consider the problems of evaluation of the missionary work of the Province, turned over to them by the Synod. The whole Province will be astir.

Bishop Burleson The whole Church was shocked by the sudden death last month of Bishop Burleson, the assistant to the Presiding Bishop. The loss is very great. He had the directing of three of the great departments of the Church's work. Few knew that work better. In the domestic field every Diocese and district was familiar to him. He was an inspiring leader, a wise counsellor, a loyal friend.

We in this Diocese feel the loss especially. We knew him well. He had often been here. So many of his family were identified with California that he was never a stranger. We had hoped to have him for a visitor at our Asilomar Conference in July and had all been talking of him there and of the help he had been to us the previous year. As we think of him two prayers will always be in our hearts. We shall thank God for his "good example" and we shall pray God to grant him "continual growth in his love and service."—E. L. P.

Personals and Diocesan Notes

The Rev. Norman H. Snow, rector of Calvary Church, Santa Cruz, has returned from an extended visit with his parents in New Hampshire.

Mr. Stephen Green has been re-appointed as teacher in the school at Yay Chow, China, and sailed on September 7 for China. Mr. Green is a candidate for the ministry.

The Rev. Dr. John Nichols has returned to St. John's University, Shanghai, to resume his work. Mrs. William Ford Nichols and daughter are vacationing at Yellowstone Park.

Miss Emily Ambrose, secretary to the Bishop, completed her fifth ascent of a 14,000-foot mountain peak in the Sierras the past summer. Miss Ambrose is an enthusiastic member of the Sierra Club.

Mrs. Edwin Castledine, wife of the vicar of St. Peter's Church, Redwood City, has been in St. Luke's Hospital for several weeks with a serious illness. She is improving and our earnest hopes for her early recovery are extended.

The Rev. Dr. L. B. Ridgley has resigned as diocesan correspondent for "The Living Church." The Rev. W. M. Ford, rector of Holy Innocents Church, San Francisco, has been appointed to succeed Dr. Ridgley as "The Living Church" correspondent.

Mrs. Frank H. Ainsworth entertained the clergy of San Francisco at a delightful tea on the afternoon of Monday, August 28. Mrs. William Ford Nichols poured tea. Members of the Girl Scouts of Trinity Church and St. Francis Church, San Francisco, served.

The Clerical Seminar will resume its fall meetings on the evening of September 20, following the Clergy Conference. A dinner will be given to the clergy of the Diocese, following the conference. The Rev. Dr. Lowry will read a paper on "The Doctrine of God." All clergy of the Diocese are invited.

A Centennial Eucharist of Thanksgiving for the preaching of the Assize sermon on "National Apostasy," by John Keble in 1833, was held in Grace Cathedral on Friday, July 14, under the auspices of the Keble Society of the Diocese. It was this historic sermon that started the Oxford Movement.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the parish of Christ Church, Sausalito, will be observed on Sunday, September 17. Over one thousand invitations to former parishioners have been sent out. A special anniversary service will be held at 11:00 a. m., to be followed by a luncheon and reception in the parish house. At the evening service the Rev. George Maxwell, who served the Church as rector for ten years, will preach the sermon.

The New Archdeacon

On August 8 the Standing Committee and the Diocesan Council confirmed the Bishop's nomination of the Rev. Dr. Hodgkin of St. Mark's, Berkeley, to be the successor of Bishop Porter. Dr. Hodgkin has served his entire ministry in this Diocese and in Berkeley. He was lay reader at St. Mark's Church while attending the University of California. After his ordination he returned to St. Mark's as assistant for student work in 1904.

He became the first vicar of All Souls when that work was launched and in 1919 succeeded the Bishop as rector of St. Mark's, which at that time included All Souls and St. Clement's. He has served as dean of the Oakland Convocation, member for years of the old Board of Missions and more recently the Diocesan Council, chairman at present of the Social Service Department, thoroughly acquainted with the mission field of the Diocese and its problems, chairman of the Committee on Canons, deputy to General Convention in 1931 and at various times to the Synod, trustee of the Church Divinity School and St. Margaret's.

In other than Church matters he has been chairman of the Community Chest in Berkeley, member of the Alameda County Welfare Board, president of the State Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

He will bring to his new position, which he assumes on October 1, qualities that should be of great value in furthering the work of the Diocese in the missionary field.

Churchmen's Round Table

Members of this organization met for luncheon at the Stewart Hotel on Wednesday, August 16, with the following present: Messrs. R. R. Plane, president; Theo Dredge, V. J. Robertson, J. H. Robinson, P. C. Woodhouse, T. J. Ivans, Frank E. Lee, Norman Rushton, L. E. Stanton, C. W. Eichbaum, E. C. Johnson, Willard Burr, A. M. Beckett, H. R. Braden, Gen. R. C. Noble and Dr. Norman Kelley.

The meeting discussed the question of increasing the usefulness of The Pacific Churchman and widening the range of its circulation. Many suggestions were made—which culminated in a resolution, unanimously adopted, "That steps should be taken to place a copy of The Pacific Churchman in the hands of every Church family in the Diocese of California." This would increase the circulation from 4000 to 7000. Mr. Robertson, as chairman of the Publicity Department of the Diocesan Council, was requested to submit this resolution to the department for consideration.

The meeting on September 20 will receive a report on the Laymen's Conference at Menlo Park and also will discuss the Every Member Canvass of the Field Department.

Sixth Annual Laymen's Conference

The sixth annual Laymen's Conference—conducted for the third time at Menlo School and Junior College, Menlo Park—has passed into history as one of the most successful yet held.

Beginning on Saturday, September 2, the members received a cordial welcome from President Lowry S. Howard, who has come to be regarded as a valuable and permanent member of the conference.

At dinner President Howard expressed the formal welcome and Bishop Parsons voiced our appreciation of his hospitality.

At the evening session stirring addresses were made by Bishop Parsons, President Howard and Mr. H. C. Wyckoff of Watsonville—laying the foundation for the general subject of the conference, "Tomorrow's Faith—the Call to Laymen."

At the close of the evening session the Rev. Lindley H. Miller, rector of the Church of St. Matthew, San Mateo, delighted the conference with some excellent moving pictures, taken by himself, of vacation fishing trips and flights in an airplane over the mountains in the Northwest.

An early celebration of Holy Communion was held on Sunday morning at Trinity Church, Menlo Park, at which the Bishop was the celebrant, assisted by the Rev. Ralph P. Smith, the rector. Bishop Parsons also gave a meditation.

At the morning session addresses were made by Mr. Norman Rushton, Dr. H. Rushton Fairclough, Mr. Ellsworth Johnson and the Rev. Fred A. Houghton, field secretary of the National Council. The afternoon was devoted to recreation and to informal conferences of several groups.

The beautiful choral vesper service was conducted by the Rev. Ralph P. Smith and nine lay readers—Dr. G. W. St. Kilda and Messrs. J. J. Dunlop, F. T. Foster, H. H. Trinies, C. E. Jackson, O. A. W. Schuchard, C. M. Lang, James Simonds, Jr. and E. V. Lester, who acted as organist. Dr. Smith made a striking address.

This was followed by an address on "Work Among Boys" by Mr. Walter MacPherson, field secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, who had traveled from Long Beach to be present.

Under the leadership of Mr. J. J. Dunlop the work of the Oxford Group Movement was exemplified in a series of interesting, brief addresses by a team consisting of the Rev. Dr. C. P. Deems, the Rev. A. R. Merrix and Messrs. H. Henderson, Ed. Gallwey, Stanley Pierce, Roland Dodge, M. E. Hopkins, W. W. Manning, Victor Kimberley and Commander Graham.

On Monday morning Mr. Robert Braden spoke on "The Laymen's League of the Episcopal Church;" Mr. Theo Dredge on "The Field Department in California," and the Rev. Fred A. Houghton on "The Work of the Church Throughout the World." The latter address aroused great interest and animated discussion. At the farewell luncheon, presided over by Mr. Theo Dredge, this discussion was continued.

The Rev. W. R. H. Hodgkin was presented as the new Archdeacon and outlined some of his views on the work of the Field Department. He received a hearty greeting and assurance of loyal support.

President Howard bade us farewell and invited the conference to come again in 1934.

There was a permanent attendance throughout the conference of sixty members, with fifteen others attending for part of the time. A noticeable feature was the increase in the number of younger men.

The conference felt a sense of deep gratitude to the speakers for the careful way in which their addresses had evidently been prepared, never getting away from the general subject and yet approaching it from widely different angles. All were helpful and inspiring. The Field Department is to be congratulated on the success of this notable contribution to the work of the laymen in this Diocese.

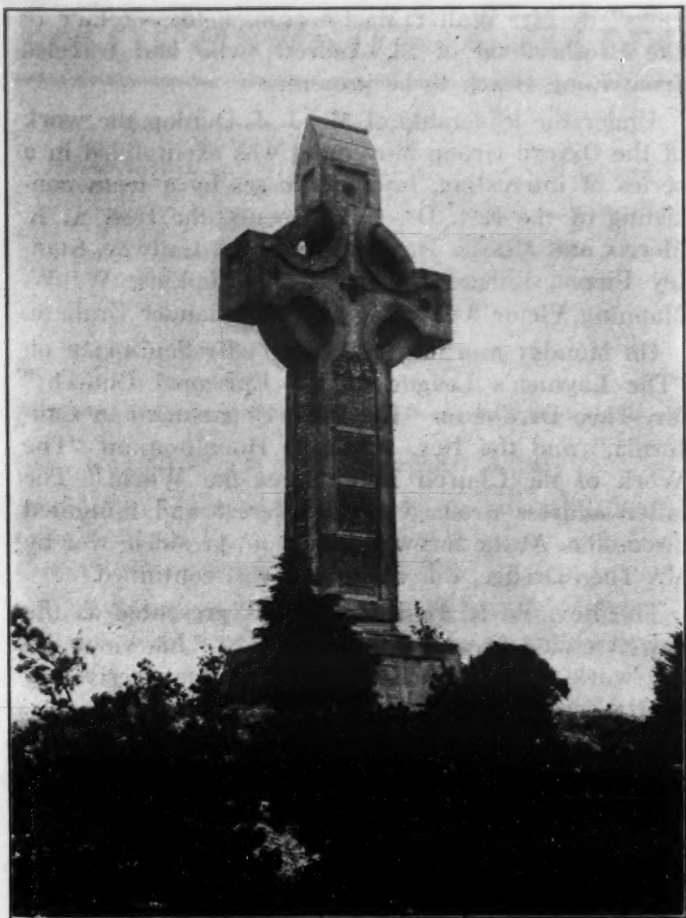

A happy incident of the conference was the exchange of telegraphic good wishes between our conference at Menlo Park and the first annual Laymen's Conference of the Diocese of Sacramento, being held at the same time at St. Dorothy's Rest, Camp Meeker, under the guidance of Bishop Porter.

Young People's Fellowship

By Dorothy Mentch, Diocesan Secretary

The Council of the Convocation of Oakland has called a "round table" for Sunday, October 10, at St. John's Church. The meeting is to be a conference of all Young People's Fellowship members in the district and it will be of interest to all young Episcopalians in the Diocese.

The program is as follows: Vespers at 3:30 p. m., with Father C. W. Nelson officiating; discussion, "How the Young People's Fellowship Can Best Serve His Parish?" "Social Program Planning in Young People's Fellowship;" business meeting; supper.

PRAYER BOOK CROSS, GOLDEN GATE PARK, SAN FRANCISCO

Prayer Book Cross Service

The Prayer Book Cross service will be held at the Cross in Golden Gate Park on Sunday, September 17, at 3:00 p. m. The Rev. Dr. Charles P. Deems will be the preacher.

A cordial and earnest invitation is extended by the House of Churchwomen to the Diocese to co-operate by being present.

The clergy are requested to wear vestments and be at the boat house by 2:30 o'clock.

Organ Recitals Resumed at St. Clement's

Mr. Alfred J. Chaplin Bayley, A. A. G. O., F. R. V. C. M., organist and choirmaster of St. Clement's Church, Berkeley, will resume his weekly vesper organ recitals at 5:00 p. m., starting September 17. These recitals are part of the vesper service, which includes an address by the rector, the Rev. J. Henry Thomas. These vesper services-organ recitals started last Lent and proved so successful that many requests from church-goers of other denominations who faithfully attended the series have urged Mr. Bayley to carry on.

Mr. Bayley will continue his teaching in the department of church music at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, as will Mr. Thomas in the department of preaching.

Members of the choir of St. Clement's who have served so faithfully in the past are resuming their work with new vigor in anticipation of the approaching twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the parish.

Mr. Bayley also trains and plays for the Sunday School choir. Last season a boy choir assisted in the church services and it is hoped that enough boys can be mustered to have the services of the church sung entirely by them.

Concerts at St. Luke's Hospital

A series of concerts is being given in the chapel of St. Luke's Hospital upon the third Sunday of each month at 8:00 o'clock. The concerts are open to all those wishing to attend, the programs being made up of all that is finest in the realm of sacred and secular music.

Artists appearing on the September concert program will be Marion Dozier, soprano; Roy Haus, violinist, and Val Ritschy, organist-composer. The works of such composers as Grieg, Debussy, Gounod, Weber, Handel, Bach, Sabin, Ritschy and Farnam will be presented.

Concerning this venture Chaplain Ohlhoff writes: "Music is one of the ways in which man can worship his Maker. Had you been at the first concert you would have seen the altar candles lit, the chapel overflowing, the doors of patients' rooms opened; and for one hour there was created a most deeply religious atmosphere. Understand that there were no prayers, no scripture readings and no applause. Number after number was played without announcement, with short intervals in which the audience (congregation) filled themselves with the inspiration that only music can give. It is because of the uniqueness of a hospital and of a church opening its doors to offer this sort of thing that I write you so that those who enjoy it may know of it."

Session of Training Institute at St. Paul's

A fall session of the Alexander Allen Memorial Training Institute will take place in St. Paul's parish house, Oakland, on Tuesday evenings, beginning September 19 and continuing until October 24.

The courses will include lectures on the Prayer Book by Rev. Henry H. Shires, rector of Christ Church, Alameda; the Bible, by Rev. Lloyd Brant Thomas, rector of Trinity Church, Oakland; and Church History, by Mrs. Edith C. Lowry, Berkeley.

Classes will be held from 7:45 to 8:30 p. m. and will be open to all who desire to attend them. Registration may be made at the Institute, through the rectors of Episcopal churches in the East Bay or with Miss Avis E. Harvey, diocesan director of religious education, St. Margaret's House, Berkeley.

The second period each evening, from 8:40 to 9:25 p. m., will be used for personal interviews and coaching for those who need help in Church School work, in religious education in the home or in personal religion.

The Pacific Churchman

Successful Summer Conference

The Summer Conference of the Diocese of California, held from July 23 to July 29, was brought to a successful conclusion. The conference is popularly known on the Pacific Coast as the Asilomar Conference, a name derived from its place of meeting. Asilomar is a delightful conference headquarters, located on the world-renowned Seventeen-mile Drive, Monterey Peninsula. The impressive and comfortable buildings nestle among the sand dunes and cypresses of this famed spot and in an atmosphere of detachment and rare beauty are admirably suited for the purposes of a summer conference.

Twenty-five parishes and missions were represented among the 153 registered delegates, practically all from the Diocese of California. About half of the conference was composed of the young people whose enthusiasm, earnestness and markedly high calibre gave a vigor and tone to all the meetings which communicated itself to the whole group. The final meeting of appraisal brought the conclusion that it had been one of the most exhilarating conferences yet held.

Dr. C. P. Deems of Trinity, San Francisco, was chairman of the conference and by his able leadership brought to an end the most successful conference over which he has yet presided. After many years at the helm he will turn over his work to the Rev. Oscar Green of Palo Alto, who this year acted as dean of the faculty.

Bishop Parsons gave an admirable series of addresses on worship at the morning assemblies and Dr. D. Charles Gardner, chaplain of Stanford University, gave an instructive course on the Gospels the following hour. Rev. Henry Shires of Alameda was chaplain of the conference and gave a course for the clergy and others on developing the spiritual life of the parish. Dean Anna Newell of St. Margaret's House, Berkeley, gave a course at the same hour on re-thinking missions and Christ in the modern world. Mrs. William Palmer Lucas, an authority on international affairs, gave the concluding conference of the morning, taking as her theme international affairs.

Mrs. J. Edison Adams was in charge of the program for the children from 10:00 to 2:00 each day. The project completed by her group was the building of the village of Nazareth. Miss Leila Anderson, student worker among women in the colleges of the Province of the Pacific, guided the conferences of the young people each morning.

One of the high lights of the conference was the addresses given each evening by Dr. Howard Thurman of Howard University, Washington, D. C. Dr. Thurman is one of the outstanding leaders of the colored race in America and made a profound impression by the depth of his thought and the sympathy of his Christian spirit.

Other features of the conference were the wist-

fully appealing and lovely sunset services held on the sand dunes each evening at sundown by the young people and the campfire entertainment which brought each day to a happy close.

One of the unique features of Asilomar is the corps of young men and women recruited from the colleges of the Pacific Slope for the dining hall and room service. The girls are traditionally known as "stuckups" and the young men as "pirates." Membership in this group is highly prized and is carried out into life as a coveted possession. During each conference these groups contribute to the lighter side of Asilomar life by their songs and stunts.

The committee elected for next year's conference is composed of the Rev. Oscar Green, Miss Avis Harvey (who acted as secretary of the conference this year), Mrs. L. C. Lance, Mrs. Z. F. Wheeler, W. W. Manning, Edward Groves, Rev. Ronald Merrix and Rev. Henry H. Shires.

One of the high lights of the conference was the addresses given each evening by Dr. Howard Thurman of Howard University, Washington, D. C. Dr. Thurman is one of the outstanding leaders of the colored race in America and made a profound impression by the depth of his thought and the sympathy of his Christian spirit.

Other features of the conference were the wist-

fully appealing and lovely sunset services held on the sand dunes each evening at sundown by the young people and the campfire entertainment which brought each day to a happy close.

One of the unique features of Asilomar is the corps of young men and women recruited from the colleges of the Pacific Slope for the dining hall and room service. The girls are traditionally known as "stuckups" and the young men as "pirates." Membership in this group is highly prized and is carried out into life as a coveted possession. During each conference these groups contribute to the lighter side of Asilomar life by their songs and stunts.

The committee elected for next year's conference is composed of the Rev. Oscar Green, Miss Avis Harvey (who acted as secretary of the conference this year), Mrs. L. C. Lance, Mrs. Z. F. Wheeler, W. W. Manning, Edward Groves, Rev. Ronald Merrix and Rev. Henry H. Shires.

Grace Cathedral Notes

The halftone which accompanies the Cathedral Page in this issue of The Pacific Churchman is from an early architect's drawing but conveys approximately the impression that the choir, sanctuary and apse will make upon the Cathedral visitor when the appointments are in place. Already the lovely Hotaling windows are glorifying the space, their beauty being now heightened by the fact that the east end of the three bays is temporarily enclosed. Every day there are scores of visitors and the congregations that worship in the Chapel of Grace almost instinctively pass through the ambulatory into the crossing to view the remarkable work that has been accomplished. The next step in our Cathedral life will be the preparation of the space of the three bays for Sunday worship. This involves problems of lighting and heating, as well as seating, and these problems are being considered by the Cathedral authorities at this time.

* * *

The second annual service for the officers and men of the visiting fleet was held on Sunday, August 13, at 11:00 o'clock and proved a notable event both in the history of the Cathedral and of San Francisco.

THE CHANCEL, GRACE CATHEDRAL

The commander-in-chief, Admiral Sellers, was our chief guest and associated with him were many other high ranking officers. They were greeted in the Chapel of Grace by a committee consisting of Cathedral Chapter members, together with Governor Rolph and other representative citizens. While they were meeting there, the enlisted men were gathering in the great spaces of the nave to the number of more than twelve hundred. The band of the U. S. S. "Maryland" played at the steps of the south transept, while the band of the U. S. S. "Colorado" was associated with Grace Cathedral choir in the music of the service. It was all impressive and even thrilling. The system of amplification installed for the service carried all of the voices over the entire area. There was rapt interest and attention on the part of the vast congregation, though many of the men had to stand throughout the service. At the close of the sermon, which was given by Dean Gresham, Chaplain Wood announced all the enlisted men would be served with luncheon "on the deck below." This meant the new crypt under the bays. Here, directed by Mrs. Batte of St. Agnes Guild, many young women from the Cathedral and from the parishes served luncheon to the twelve hundred men. The service for the men of the fleet represented not only our own Church and Diocese but also the many Protestant groups of Christian people in San Francisco. Many communications which have been received since the service at the Cathedral Building Fund office record the great appreciation of the navy for the service thus provided. It is understood that the cross which is to surmount the fleche over the crossing of the Cathedral will be the gift of the enlisted men of the fleet. Great interest has been expressed in this objective and Chaplain Evans, head of the chaplains' division at Washington, has personally made the first contribution.

Elsewhere in this issue of The Pacific Churchman will be found a special notice of the forthcoming service at the foot of the Prayer Book Cross on the afternoon of Sunday, September 17. The chairman of the House of Churchwomen, under whose auspices the service is held, is Mrs. Frank H. Ainsworth and the chairman of the committee of arrangements for the service is Canon Ridgely of the Cathedral. The men of the Cathedral choir will take part in the service. The Bishop will be represented by Dean Gresham and the preacher will be the Rev. Charles P. Deems, D. D. There will be many of the clergy in the procession, as well as the parish choirs. It is hoped that there may be a splendid attendance of our Church people and that the fine tradition of the service will be upheld.

Young People at Asilomar Conference

By Alice Turman

The Asilomar Conference was to its young people the embodiment of close fellowship in worship as well as in recreation, of spiritual guidance, of deepened devotion to our highest beliefs and of all those intangible attributes which contribute to the "Asilomar level."

Under the direction of Miss Leila Anderson and the young people's planning committee the program held an unlimited amount of interest for young people. Two hours each morning were devoted to valuable talks and discussions led by members of the faculty. Dean Newell of St. Margaret's House led an interesting discussion on the subject of "How to Distinguish Between Right and Wrong." Dr. Deems chose a subject which is equally in need of discussion by young people in this era of change and upheaval—"Boy and Girl Relationships." His discussion was continued on Friday by request of the group.

Dr. Thurman, professor of the philosophy of religion at Howard University in Washington, D. C., one of the most inspirational leaders of the conference, spoke on "Race Relationships." His broad-minded comments led his hearers to adopt a wider and more sympathetic viewpoint on the present situation between the negro and the white man. Mrs. William Palmer Lucas, who conducted a regular class on international affairs, presented to the young people her views on "How to Find a Place in the World." Mrs. Lucas is loved and admired by all who are fortunate enough to come in contact with her, both for her unusual knowledge of human affairs and for her outstanding personality.

Sunset services conducted by the young people under the leadership of Miss Frances Bailey were held on the sand dunes every evening. These services have become a tradition of the conference and are a fitting climax to the day's activities. Pine trees, rolling white sand dunes, soft gray fog and a crackling campfire form a setting of unsurpassed loveliness for the worship of God.

Under the leadership of Miss Gwen Mayne, chairman of the recreation committee, many interesting recreational events were carried out, including a swimming meet and baseball and volley ball games between the faculty or "Methuselahs" and the "Infants." Evening campfires and a program presented by the young people added zest to conference activities. At the urgent request of those in authority, the "Pirates" and "Stuckups," college students who are employed at Asilomar during the summer months, entertained the group with an extremely versatile and clever program which was followed by a dance.

Miss Katherine Mason, counsellor of the girls, made herself invaluable by her tactful enforcement of important regulations concerning the goings and comings of her charges. Mr. Ted Redwell of McGill University undertook the difficult position of boys' counsellor, cheer leader and director of recreation. He was ably assisted in this field by Dr. Deems, who served as co-worker.

The planning committee for the coming year is as follows: George Shaw, chairman; Alice Turman, secretary; Sarah Vermilye, Betsy Deems, Florence Clayton, Eleanor Graupner, Gwen Mayne, Beatrice Cantarar and Dick Farrer. Members of the group represent committees of the young people, the Servers Guild and Altar Guild, the hospitality committee, the recreation committee, the worship committee and the committee on race relationships. The remaining three members of the planning committee are members at large.

Pentecostal Accordance

By Rev. W. M. Bours

The basis of unity germane to the nature of that for which Jesus Christ prayed is constituent of those elements of institutional consistency of the mystical Body of Christ which are agreeable to a composite of the Biblical allegories of ecclesial corporeity: the Vine and the branches, the human body and its members and that "house," built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, of which Jesus Christ Himself is the chief corner-stone.

Those marks of the recurrent course of divine providence, grape vine, human body and material building, are likenesses of the creative effects of the phenomenal bestowal of power at Pentecost, of which the figure of the Vine was prophetic. Moreover, being pertinent to the primeval creation of the world, to the timely building of the temple wherein abode the glory of the Lord and to the consummation of grace and glory in the healing of the nations, evermore the tabernacle of God being with men, those vehicles of revelation are distinctive of unity in the perpetuity of the laws conservative of the corporate integrity of the Pentecostal spiritual endowment.

Officers' Quiet Day

By Mrs. L. C. Lance

On August 11 ten of the diocesan officers of the Woman's Auxiliary gathered at St. Margaret's House for a quiet day. The Rev. Schuyler Pratt celebrated Holy Communion and Dean Newell conducted the meditations, dealing with the responsibilities of Christian leadership. Around the luncheon table we held an informal discussion continuing the thought of the preceding meditations.

Conference Courageous

By the Rev. George H. B. Wright

With over three thousand registered delegates in a year that finally has become a "reconstruction era" the sixtieth meeting of the National Conference of Social Work can be set down as a triumph. Detroit is probably the most depressed city in the country and if a special attempt had been made to choose its worst year no better success could have been attained. With every bank closed—and some forever—and funds lacking for the renting of halls and meeting places, the hotel men rallied to the occasion and provided attractive and well-serviced ballrooms and parlors for conferences. No one could forget the unfailing courtesy and the real beauty of the largest hotels of Detroit.

The touch of the social worker is becoming increasingly surer. The relation between the public and private agencies is becoming clearer and more understanding, as the public agencies are taking over much that used to be left to private agencies and are calling in the social workers for their staffs. On the program were many of the experts from Washington and the younger professors of economics from various universities, together with county and State officials. This marks a distinct advance in the recognition of social work.

If one were asked to pick the dominant note of the conference one would have no hesitation in saying that it was the repeated challenge to social workers to assert themselves as competent to offer plans for a new order of society. The social worker has not as a rule regarded himself as a reformer. He has buckled down to his ever-increasing job but has hesitated to dictate to those who were supposed to be in a better position to make plans for recovery. Now, much to his surprise, he finds that no person knows more about it than he does. We have been rather completely disillusioned. Our vaunted business men have shown themselves so inadequate to meeting an emergency that we can no longer look to them for much planning. There has been too much fear and distrust and lack of vision. It is now no time for hesitation on the part of those already experienced in meeting crises. President Roosevelt has boldly blazed the way by calling on experts as his advisors. The Church has a very definite challenge here also. For years we have belonged to an organization with ideals—sound, sensible, practical, workable ideals—set forth by a divine mind. We have been afraid to take them literally. During the last century or so we have bowed down to the unsound ideals of those who said that success must be measured by money. We knew perfectly well that our Master had said that riches were a handicap in attaining the ideals which He taught and yet we felt that perhaps "they didn't know everything down in Judee" and perhaps the "great captains of industry" had improved on His teaching. Well, He has been pretty thoroughly vindicated and the world turns toward the simple truth "as it is in Jesus." Our great problem is to persuade the world once more that the Church really stands for His teaching.

This must be only a general view of the conference of 1933, to be followed by more detailed accounts. As one of the associate groups met the Episcopal Church Workers. As usual it was a well-planned, strong program showing a commendable grasp of the philosophy of social work and the real relation which the Church ought to have in its working out. The introduction of speakers who are experts in their lines to bring new viewpoints for religious workers is of great service. Such were the addresses of Mrs. Hogge, mental hygiene counsellor of the board of education of Highland Park, Michigan, on "The Approach to Modern Youth," and C. Luther Fry, on "What the Hoover Study of Recent Social Trends Found Out About Religion." Here the old, humiliating question came up: "Does the Church represent religion?" We must not presume to criticize adversely other religious bodies. We must continue to ask ourselves: "Does my own branch of the Church show by its good work enough of the Master's spirit to make people want to take His teaching seriously?"

A gracious and distinctive part of the program was the day we went abroad to Windsor, under the river

The Beautiful Way

The Garden of Prayer is open to the sun and sky. Sunlight freely floods the whispering fountains, the ferns and flowers. Above each Garden Terrace a great glass skylight is rolled quietly into place on inclement days.

Here in the open air, one visits the urns of loved ones in a mood of deep content. Here, indeed, is a great memorial that the passing years will but touch with added beauty.

Inurnment . . . shelter for urns in this great memorial . . . costs as little as $25, fully paid up, under perpetual care.

"Let flowers fair and gay adorn each walk
Make bright each grot love's hand has planned."

In such inspiring settings as these, hope and faith leap strong within to bear the spirit into newer, happier, brighter days. Here, close to this Garden of Memory, is the comforting Meditation Chapel, with its venerable tapestry, its peaceful seclusion and its repose for the mind.

to Ontario. After a delicious Canadian luncheon, presided over by His Grace the Archbishop of Ottawa, two excellent papers on "The Church and the Problem Girl" were given—one by Miss Whitton of the Canadian Church and the other from the standpoint of the American Church by Miss Clark. It was a pleasure to note the complete understanding of the problems of social service shown by the venerable Archbishop. Canon Vernon, the head of the Canadian social service forces, was a delight to all of us. The program in the later afternoon followed the same plan of comparison between the two branches of the Church in the discussion of what a parish may do and may not do in the field of social service. Afternoon tea, with an opportunity of informal discussion and friendly intercourse, brought to an end a day which will always leave a pleasant memory of All Saints, Windsor.

Perhaps one of the most significant papers was that by Miss Mary S. Brinsley of the Church Mission of Help on "The Case Work Method and Spiritual Development."

With the impressive service of preparation on Thursday night and the corporate communions on Friday morning, celebrated by Bishop Page of St. John's Church, Detroit, the conference ended.
